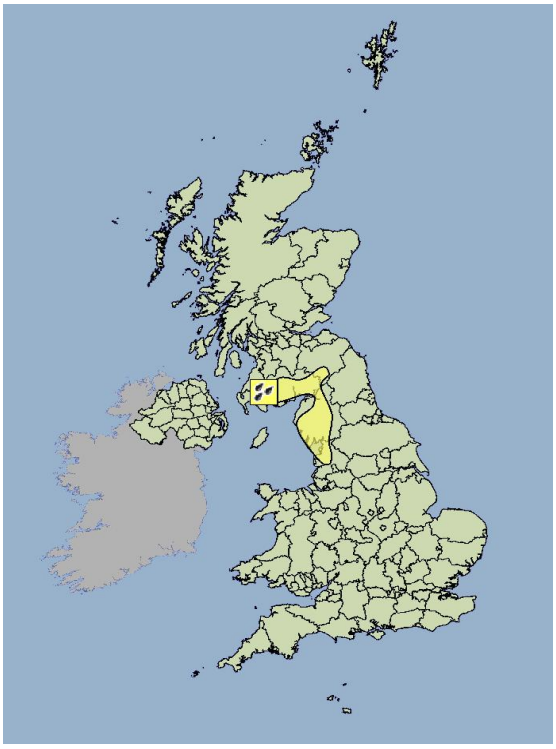
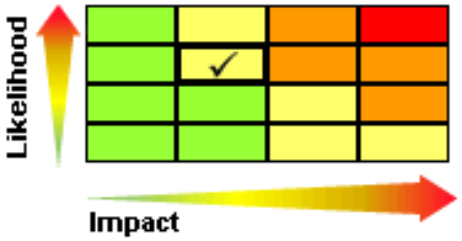
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A relatively deep depression crosses in a line from Northern Ireland to Southern Scotland and into the North Sea by the end of Saturday. Around it, several "spiral" bands of heavy showers will affect the warning area, with 30 mm of rain falling in a few hours in some places and perhaps 50 mm overall across the hills. These amounts are by no means out of the ordinary for this area but may lead to impacts in view of anticipated holiday travel and activities.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 09:00 on Sat, 20th Aug 2016 until 18:00 on Sat, 20th Aug 2016

Bands of heavy showers will affect parts of northwest England and southern Scotland today. Please be aware that this will make travel more difficult for holiday traffic due to surface water and spray, and may disrupt some outdoor activities for a time.
